LET'S TALK MENTAL HEALTH

Talking to friends and family about mental health can be an opportunity to provide accurate information, support, and contact information to them.

How to Talk About Mental Health

- I've been worried about you. Can we talk about what you are experiencing? If not, who are you comfortable talking to?
- It seems like you are going through a difficult time. Maybe we should call TBHS together at 989.673.6191.
- I am someone who cares and wants to listen. What do you want me to know about how you are feeling?
- Who or what has helped you with similar issues in the past?
- I'm concerned about your safety. Have you thought about harming yourself or others? There is HOPE and help is available 24/7.

A 500-person, in-venue protest against her stay-at-home order was organized for today at the state capital. "I'm not protesting it, I'm protesting the way they're handling it. If it's okay too, I have thick skin. I am always going to defend your right to free speech. I just ask that those who are protesting these orders do so in a safe manner so that on work they already do in such remote education systems as the Skyward program, Edgenuity E2020 program and the Michigan virtual high school. "We are not protesting it, we are protesting the way they're handling it. If it's okay too, I have thick skin. I am always going to defend your right to free speech. I just ask that those who are protesting these orders do so in a safe manner so that

Our staff has worked collaboratively across the board with teachers, administrators, board members and parents to help draft the plan," Foster said. "We've had a very short time frame to design something educationally during this challenging time, especially with finding platforms that allow that to happen using the internet." Cass City Superintendent Jeff Hartel said his district's education plan is nearly ready. It still will need to get
